Balen chosen for top school post

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

The Granite City School Board selected Steve Balen, 44, as the new school superintendent Tuesday following a one-hour closed session.

Balen moves up from his post as Special Education Region 1 director to replace Gilbert "Gib" Walmley, who leaves after six years as superintendent and 29 years with the district to become superintendent of the Moline School District on July 1.

The board considered 10 applicants for the position, five from the District 9 administration and five out-of-district candidates. On Tuesday night, the board decided not to interview the five potential out-of-district candidates and instead voted for Balen to fill the post.

The board voted 6-1 in favor of Balen, picking him over four other District 9 employees: Pat Gonwa, assistant principal at Coolidge Junior High School; Jim Jeffries, Coolidge principal; Pat Schuman, administrative assistant for personnel; and Mike Sikora, the district's director of secondary education.

Board Member Monroe Worlthen cast the lone dissenting vote.

"All the candidates were extremely well qualified," said Board President Mark Eavenson. "But we could only pick one. And we were happy to pick Mr. Balen."

The board chose to look within the Granite City school system to fill the position, adhering to its policy of giving district employees preference, Eavenson said.

Walmley said he is leaving to accept the opportunity to begin in a new district, though he said he has not released an official statement on his reasons. He is leaving an annual salary of about $71,000 for an approximate $18,000 per year raise.

Balen came to this district in 1981 after serving four years as the director of Special Education Region III in Bethalto. There are three such regions in Madison County, with Region I encompassing the Granite City, Madison and Venice school districts.

Balen's 24 years as an educator include 16 years in administrative posts. In the end, this made him the candidate favored by the

Ordinance ends sewer cleaning

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Granite City's free residential sewer line cleaning started its way down the drain Tuesday night.

In a 7-6 vote, the Granite City Council passed the first reading of an ordinance eliminating the sewer cleaning service by the city's Street Department.

The service came under attack as a "political tool" during the campaigns of at least two former city street superintendents.

As recently as 1989, street department employees alleged, and had the allegations published in newspaper articles, that the service was used both to gain and pay political favors.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse called on the aldermen to "call a spade a spade" and chided unnamed aldermen for letting political considerations outweigh common sense and the good of the city.

"It started as a political tool and I think it still is," Cruse said. "It's a service we should not be in, one we never should have been in and it would be ridiculous (for us) to continue it."

Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison said the service "not being used politically right at this present time."

Harrison denied Cruse's allegations that, prior to being elected superintendent, Harrison admitted it was a political tool while Harrison was a street department employee.

Ward 4 Alderman Dan Partney, chairman of the Street and Alley Committee, said eliminating the service "not a good move politically," but said it makes sense in two ways: The two-man crew now performing will be free to work in other areas at the already short-staffed street department and performing a service on private property, even with a legal waiver, leaves the city open for adverse legal action.

Harrison denied he would gain two workers for other duties because he said at least one of them would still have to respond to problems on the main sewer line. Harrison said the crew now spends less than 60 percent of its time working on private sewers.

Responding to questions from the aldermen, City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said the city has never been sued in connection with cleaning a private sewer line, but quickly added that never having been sued is not necessarily a good sign when it comes to the city's potential liability.

Goldenberg said because cleaning residential sewer lines is not an accepted common practice for municipalities it is unlikely the city's insurance company would cover the city in the case of a suit. And, he said, because the city has never had a suit filed against it in connection with the service the city can show no precedent that the service should be covered.

Eticam receives no support

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

An Illinois Environmental Protection Agency hearing Tuesday night appeared to resoundingly answer any questions about the way many Granite City residents feel about a proposed hazardous-wastewater treatment facility in town.

About 400 people attended to discuss and listen to comments on the proposed Eticam plant. No one in the audience came forward to offer support for the facility.

A long list of those who planned to speak dwindled as the meeting continued on for over-four hours. But one thing which did not dissipate was opposition to the plant.

Among those at the meeting were Mayor Von Dee Cruse and a group from Eticam comprised of Pernley, Nev., plant general manager Byron Bradd, Eticam Vice President Austin Donnelly and Eticam attorney Raymond Reott. The Eticam triumvirate did not field audience questions concerning their operation.

Cruse and the group representing Eticam were the recipients of the brunt of the criticism. Residents' complaints ranged from emergency preparedness to insurance liability to possible violations at the siting meeting in 1989.

Even with the wide discontent that was voiced,

Bellcoff opposes topless dancing proposal

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

A proposal for an adult entertainment — topless and bottomless dancing — facility at the current Stages nightclub on Illinois 203 in Madison got a cold reception Tuesday from Mayor John Bellcoff, but it has not been turned down yet.

Bellcoff said that, as liquor commissioner, he will refuse to grant a liquor license to the facility if it planned to offer topless dancing or any other form of "lewd entertainment."

And as mayor, Bellcoff said, he will refuse to sign any ordinance amending or repealing any part of the city's 1989 obscenity ordinance in order to allow Stages or any other facility in the city to offer nude or semi-nude entertainment.

Although in Madison, Stages is in St. Clair County and exempt from Madison County bans on live-adult entertainment.

Bellcoff said there is no doubt that the city could use the projected $100,000 a year in revenue from the club, but said, "I would rather fight and scratch and find other ways to get the money."

"But as mayor, I represent the people of Madison. You all, as members of the City Council, represent the people of Madison. In November there will be an election and, if Stages is willing to pay the expenses, I would not be against putting a proposition concerning this on the ballot," Bellcoff said.

"In that case, I will abide by what the citizens of Madison say and do my duty as told by a vote of the citizens."

After a brief discussion, the City Council voted to refer the proposal to the Legislative Committee chaired by Alderman George Amisch. The committee promised to meet with representatives from Stages and the proposed new management and make a report at the next council meeting.

The proposal, prepared by Larry Troesch of Deja Vu in Springfield, Ill., calls for $1 million in improvements to be made to the current Stages building located behind the Gateway International Raceway. The new facility would open by the end of the 1992 baseball season.

Rogers pleads guilty, gets 4-year sentence

A Mitchell woman, previously imprisoned for car artist acts, will be spending four more years in a state prison after entering a guilty plea to theft, forgery and deceptive practice charges.

Alice Rogers, 37, of the 700 block of Ashland Place, was sentenced to two consecutive two-year prison sentences for three counts of theft over $300 and two counts each of forgery and deceptive practices. Rogers could have received more than 20 years in prison.

The plea agreement, reached between Assistant State's Attorney Jim Buckley and defense attorney Tom Hildebrand, was accepted by Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner Friday.

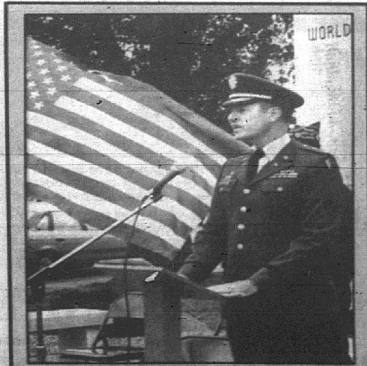

Rogers was on parole after being sentenced to a 30-month prison term in June 1990 on theft, deception and drug possession charges. Police said that the charges resulted from scams in which Rogers would befriended elderly men before taking jewelry, appliances and even their life savings with hard-luck tales.

Rogers was free on bond earlier this month after being charged in a $4,500 check scam when she was arrested and charged with three counts of theft over $300. In the latest incidents, Rogers victimized three Granite City men — aged 42, 76 and 82 — out of $2,400.

In the May 5 incident, after which she was arrested, Rogers asked the 82-year-old man, who had just cashed his $725 Social Security check, for a ride to his home because she had car trouble, police said. Once at the man's home, Rogers took the money from a drawer that the man had placed it in before asking him to drive her to her sister's residence.

Instead, she directed the man to Washington Park where she met another man and asked the elderly man to leave.

Pontoon man faces sentencing

A Pontoon Beach man, already sentenced to eight years in a state prison for weapons charges, was to be sentenced today on an additional weapons charge.

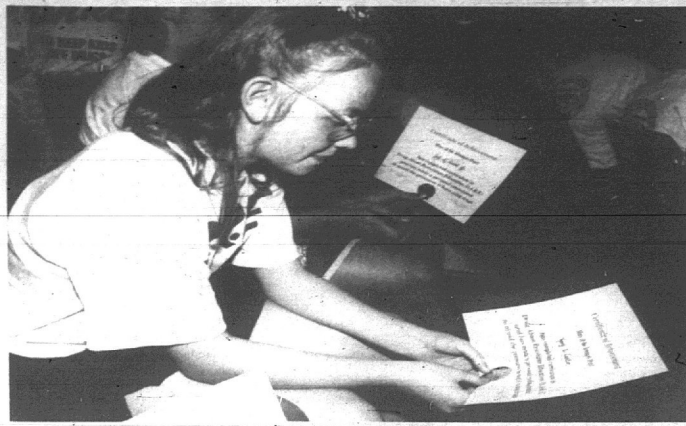

John E. Ashburn, 39, faces sentencing by Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani Jr., who postponed Ashburn's sentencing Wednesday afternoon after accepting into the record the transcript of Ashburn's previous sentencing hearing last Aug. 7. When that sentencing hearing resumed Aug. 28, Ashburn received an eight-year prison sentence on two counts of unlawful possession of a weapon by a felon.

The charges resulted from incidents with the Granite City Police Department on June 8, 1990, and the Madison County Sheriff's Department on June 25, 1990. Ashburn had pleaded guilty to both charges in January 1991.

Romani, who did not preside over the prior proceedings, said he intended to review the transcript before sentencing Ashburn. Romani will be sentencing Ashburn on another charge of unlawful weapon possession stemming from a July 17, 1991, incident at Ralph and Charlie's Steak House in which Pontoon Beach police confiscated a 22-caliber revolver from Ashburn. Ashburn entered a guilty plea to that charge March 25.

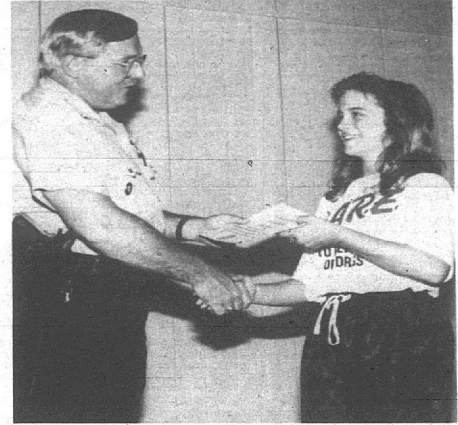

Assistant State's Attorney Craig Jensen said Wednesday he sought to have the Aug. 7, 1991, transcript entered into record in lieu of witness testimony.

Scam victims get money back

County sleuths have paved the way for justice, according to a Cottage Hills couple stuck with a driveway full of overpriced asphalt.

Richard and Lena Hargrave are urging others who may have been bamboozled to contact authorities.

The Hargraves, both 67, were victimized May 14 by a clan that has allegedly canvassed Madison and Jersey counties, scamming senior citizens out of thousands of dollars.

Hargrave said at least five men, who claimed to work for their father's Granite City asphalt business, worked on her driveway. They told her they had some "extra asphalt from a highway job across town" and could cover her driveway for a minimal fee, she said.

The Madison County Sheriff's Department got wind of the deceptive practices, took possession of the group's dump trucks and talked them into refunding the money.

"After we seized the trucks, we talked to the father and had reason to believe the family was involved," Madison County Chief of Detectives Robert Hertz said. "Our immediate concern was getting the money back."

The Hargraves, of the 1400 block of 14th Street, paid more than $4,000 to have their driveway paved. The Jersey County couple, both in their 70s, recovered $5,500 of the $7,000 they paid.

"They agreed what was done to their drive was worth some of the money," Hertz said. "They were both very appreciative of getting their money back."

The money was retrieved from members of a family living in mobile homes near Granite City. No arrests have been made, and officials declined to release the names of the family members.

Hertz and Jersey County Sheriff Frank Yocom seized two dump trucks Friday morning at Mississippi Lime Co. in Alton, where the asphalt materials were allegedly bought.

Assistant Illinois Attorney General Dennis Orsey said he was investigating a similar incident involving an 82-year-old Edwardsville man. Hertz said he would try to recover his money, about $1,600, if he was also a victim of the group.

Lena Hargrave said she thought several people were finagled by the same offenders but were too ashamed to come forward.

Development has been strong in past year in city

The following was written by Granite City Mayor Von Dee Cruse. It is his State of the Community report for May 26, 1992.

The past fiscal year has been one of the strongest years of development in my memory of Granite City.

From PVO Foods to Wal-Mart, we have been able to add hundreds of jobs for our people and millions of dollars to our tax base. This is no accident. Years of hard work made it happen.

But while we are able to take joy and pride from our local accomplishments, we are also disheartened by a governor who chooses to solve state financial problems on the backs of city government and the people of our community.

For decades, our Central Business District gradually died, but because we had the foresight to establish a Tax Increment Finance District in 1986, redevelopment is finally occurring.

Through our efforts, a badly blighted block was cleared away and a new QuikTrip, Jack In The Box, and Taco Bell were built. This development will not only generate tax dollars far into the future, but also has injected a breath of fresh air into the neighborhood beyond.

Just down the street, St. Elizabeth Medical Center increased its commitment to downtown Granite City by building a $4 million office building which will house medical offices and retail shops. The quality of its design and construction makes a dramatic statement on Madison Avenue.

And, down in the heart of the old Downtown, new development is occurring there, too.

Through our efforts, a new Driver's License Facility has been built to serve the Tri-Cities area. Right next door, the Madison County Transit District is now building a $12 million transit hub which will be a showplace in the Granite City area; it will make Downtown a transportation center and, I think, will have a revitalizing effect on the property around it.

Adding these developments to the new sidewalks, trees, and street lights that have been, and continue to be, installed — and previous developments like McDonald's and Amoco, in which city government also played a part — and the pattern of rebirth is unmistakable.

This past fiscal year saw the opening of Wal-Mart, the culmination of six years of hard work and an effort in which all of us should take pride.

Wal-Mart officials unabashedly say that the store is here because of the campaign we waged — a grassroots campaign that not only brought us the store, the 200 jobs, the hundreds of thousands of tax dollars, but also a bright future as Wal-Mart catalyzes development in the Granite City area.

We have been successful on the industrial side, as well. Our hard work and diligent attitude won PVO Foods away from the City of St. Louis. This $4 million plant has greatly beautified a badly blighted area and will eventually employ 150-200 union workers. The addition will bring the total number of people employed in the food-related industry in Granite City to nearly 1,000. We're not just a steel town anymore.

Robinson Steel is our newest industrial resident. This $9 million plant will add 50 jobs to our work force and, hopefully, be the first of many links to the steel industry here.

Since I was first elected in 1988, I have promoted professionalism in city government because it doesn't cost. It pays.

Just in the last year, we have been able to rebuild West Pontoon Road and finally solve its drainage problem.

We have rebuilt our dilapidated Nameoki sewer system through Insituform, lift station rehabilitation and point repairs. And we have brought about the widening of Nameoki Road.

When you add these accomplishments to those of previous years — East 23rd Street, Rock Road, and Madison Avenue — the list of public works projects and the improvements to the community which they bring are truly impressive.

It is even more impressive when you realize that we have been able to spur all of this economic growth and finance all of these improvements without a tax increase.

City government is a tremendous bargain. We supply so many services, from police, fire and ambulance to dog catching and street repair. And we do it for only 16 cents of the citizens' property tax dollar.

We are all aware of the State of Illinois' financial woes, but I don't think many people are aware of how it affects city government and our citizens. Last year, we took a double hit from the state. First, they cut our share of the income tax by $500,000. Then they took away our sales tax on food and drugs. The total hit to our city budget was almost $1 million out of a $12 million total.

The city had been holding a tight line on expenditures. The fact is that, over the last decade, total expenditures have increased by an average of only 2 percent per year.

But that million-dollar punch from Springfield was something we couldn't handle. When you hold your budget that tight for that long while costs of everything from health care to trash disposal are going up, there isn't much fat to cut.

Through an attrition program which began in 1990, we have cut an engineer, three policemen, two firemen and three street workers due to retirement.

The state's actions forced us to replace the lost revenue with fees for trash collection and increased sales tax.

And the tough times aren't over. Governor Edgar's budget has called for another cut of almost $700,000 of our share of the income tax.

Besides that, he has proposed cutting Tax Increment Financing entirely. Once again, he is trying to solve his problems at our expense. And our citizens are the ones who will end up suffering either through higher local taxes or reductions in municipal services.

We are now considering the hiring of a management consultant to try to find ways that we can operate more efficiently, and to show us how we can maintain the services our people expect with declining revenues.

Despite our Springfield problems, I am looking forward to another year of progress.

The transit terminal will open in September. We are now buying property Downtown for another new development, this one a large drug store.

Last week's presentation on the Sears distribution center was exciting. Another leg of the Pontoon Road project will begin. And more improvements will be made in the East Granite, Downtown, and Lincoln Place neighborhoods.

Good things don't just happen. Good people make them happen. In democratic government, it takes good people, putting aside their personal interests, their political aims, and their individual goals to work together as a team focusing on the good of the community.

That is not always easy. Special-interest groups can distort the legislators' view and cause them to take actions not in accordance with the greater good of the community.

But this City Council is to be commended for its progressive attitude, its can-do spirit, its cooperative nature, and its vision of the future.

As I make this State of the Community report, I take great pride in the changes that we have brought about, and I feel excitement about the course this city is now on. So should you.

Bill to spur home building on vacant lots goes to Senate

Legislation that could help sprout new homes instead of weeds on Granite City's vacant lots is headed to the Senate.

A bill sponsored by state Rep. Jim McPike, D-Alton, would allow Granite City and other home-rule municipalities with 25,000 or more people to grant real estate tax breaks for up to 10 years for new housing in areas of "urban decay." The measure passed the House Friday without opposition or debate.

The bill is a revised version of one that passed the Legislature last year but was vetoed by Gov. Jim Edgar.

The new bill includes changes sought by Edgar's office and has the governor's support. One change added a restriction that the tax breaks granted in any given year could not exceed 2 percent of the total residential taxes within the township.

The revised legislation also includes a requirement that the abatements be reduced by 20 percent increments during the last four years of the tax break period.

A third change sets up an Abatement Review Board with members of all affected taxing bodies to make recommendations in a 45-day period before a final ordinance is granted by a city council. The board could not block an abatement, however.

The real estate tax abatements would be granted for newly constructed owner-occupied single-family or duplex units in areas that meet various criteria for urban decay such as dilapidated structures or vacant land in an area of poor housing or high vacancies.

Alton has more than 2,000 vacant lots and Alton Mayor Ed Voumard Jr. has been a supporter of McPike's legislation, saying it could be another useful tool in trying to spur construction of more new housing.

McPike said he hopes the legislation could encourage more new homes to be built within Alton rather than continuing to go to adjacent communities such as Godfrey and Foster Township.

Chance to show unity

It is easy to sit back and shake your head in disgust over scenes and stories of violence and crime.

It's easy to view those things from a distance and believe they could not have a direct effect on your life.

But they do, and it does happen here. No one should ever have to say, "You hear about these things happening to other people, but you think it will never happen to you."

What can you do?

People who don't want to become victims need to stand up and be seen. They need to join together and show they can be a force against crime.

At 11 a.m. Saturday, Project Cleanup will provide an excellent opportunity to show that unity and to show strength as summer approaches and temperatures and tempers rise, and young people are left to find activities of their own.

The annual March Against Drugs will be expanded this year to include protests against violence and gangs. A rally at the Venice Public Library will follow the march.

The young people of the community will be given an "opportunity to tell us exactly what we must do, what they want us to do, that will keep them out of trouble for the summer," said the Rev. John Henry Williams.

This is not an issue isolated to the Venice area. Violence and crime happen everywhere and people who do not realize that are likely victims.

The more people who show up for the march and rally — people willing to listen and to help — the more opportunity there will be to solve potential problems before summer's circumstances have the opportunity to escalate them.

"We need to get together people who will listen. ... Everybody who cares about our young people and are willing to help," Rev. Williams said.

Being willing to listen and able to offer assistance are considerable attributes. We hope Rev. Williams and the assembled youths will find a room full of qualified people.

Belles, queens abound on river

(Carol Clarkin's column appears weekly in the Edwardsville Journal.)

It's an idle thought, one which probably wouldn't have occurred had it not been for the recent proliferation of riverboats due to the legalization of casino gambling in several states.

But it struck me recently — why are they all beauties? Are there no mud fences chugging away on our inland waterways?

They're not all new — nor are they all gambling boats.

But a quick checklist must include all these "belles" — the Belles of St. Louis, Louisville, Mississippi (both I and II), Alton, Dubuque (the Casino Belle, that one). Not to forget the pride of the brothers Trone (Dennis and Bob), the Julie Belle Swain.

And let's not forget the "queens" the fabled Delta Queen, the Mississippi Queen, the Quad-City Queen.

Among all these American Beauties, isn't there room for an ordinary, homely gal? Say, the Waterlily of the Wabash, maybe?

The Hag of the Hudson?

Returning recently from a few days in Dubuque, during which we checked out the Casino Belle — and no, we didn't debarb winners — I was interested to read several business-page stories about the growing craze in riverboat gambling, with specific attention to the Alton Belle, gaming revenue from both the Iowa and Illinois boats, and the pros and cons of loss limits.

It was refreshing to read the comments of John Connors, a partner and chief officer of the Alton Belle, whose honesty confirmed my suspicions that the boat is not for me — I'm far too small potatoes to mingle with all those high-rollers for whom it was designed.

According to Connors, there are "guys coming over here who out in Las Vegas have $300,000 to $400,000 credit lines."

That's way out of my league. Moreover, friends who have been on the boat — I haven't — have complained about the crowds and lack of seating, as well as the difficulty of getting a seat at a blackjack table.

In spite of the crowds and no-limit betting, the casino is a huge success. Its gaming revenue is running $4 million a month. And every 24 hours, 20 percent of that revenue is paid to the State of Illinois in taxes, out of which a fourth is returned to the City of Alton — and that ain't rich.

During the first four months of '92, gaming revenue has been in the neighborhood of $17 million on the Alton Belle, an impressive bonanza to the state and city when you figure their percentages.

It apparently hasn't been a big boost to downtown businesses — but that's because Connors and partners want gamblers, not sight-seers.

Now, to Dubuque's Casino Belle. It's a huge boat, longer than a football field, with a crew of over 250, and can accommodate 2,000 passengers.

The Alton Belle's casino area is only 6,610 square feet and the boat holds just under 500 passengers.

In spite of the size difference, the two are close in some respects: the Casino Belle has 500 slots and 26 table games, the Alton boat has 300 slots and 21 tables.

The Alton Belle's cruise is two hours and goes upstream only to the Plaza Bird, while the Casino Belle's is a four-hour cruise along a stretch of the Mississippi notable for beautifully wooded shoreline.

The Casino Belle, additionally, has brunch, lunch and dinner cruises and the food is excellent.

It has live music in the dining room and a cabaret-style show in part of the third deck — a show suitable for youngsters. For that matter, there's a supervised activity center for children between the ages of 3-12 on the boat.

But the individual passenger can lose no more than $200 per cruise, since Iowa has a loss limit.

Not a cap designed to attract professional gamblers, but the state is more interested in the tourist buck than that of the pro — and it's paying off, at least to date.

The city itself is promoting tourism with additional attractions — several museums of interest, a historic district (there are well over 30 nationally registered historic buildings and monuments), golf courses, dog racing, and, across the river in Illinois, the attractions of Galena. Local business is booming.

Will we return to try our luck again in Dubuque? No question of it.

To borrow a slogan from the aforementioned Trone brothers, "You're lookin' swell, Casino Belle!"

Simon evaluated as running mate for Clinton

(The following column was written by Robert Estill for Copley News Service.)

Republican Gov. Jim Edgar says Sen. Paul Simon would be a plus with Illinois voters as a running mate for Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, but he is uncertain what the Rev. Jesse Jackson would add to the Democratic ticket in the state.

"My sense is that Simon would be more of a plus," Edgar, chairman of President Bush's re-election campaign in Illinois, said of the Democratic senator. "But I am not sure what Jesse Jackson would bring."

Edgar said he does not know where former Chicagoan Jackson's "strength might be" in Illinois, because Democrats have Carol Moseley Braun on the ticket, attempting to become the first black woman elected to the U.S. Senate.

"I think they might already have strength just from the fact that there is a member of the African-American community running for a prominent statewide position," Edgar said. "So I am not sure he (Jackson) adds anything more."

Edgar said Simon — a fixture in Illinois politics for nearly four decades — would help Clinton because he was known to the incumbent. But the state's top Republican is not predicting Simon, re-elected with 65 percent of the vote in 1990, would make the critical difference for Clinton in a state that Bush carried by a bare 2 percent in 1988.

Our guest

"Where push comes to shove, I don't think vice presidential candidates usually determine how people vote for president," Edgar responded.

"I don't know if it would have that much of an impact," the governor continued. "I think it would be more of a plus than a minus, but it would be hard to gauge how much of a plus it would be. It would be hard to gauge whether that would tilt the state toward Clinton."

The governor said he does think Clinton would be hurt more than Bush in Illinois if Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot runs as an independent candidate for president.

Edgar said he has not seen any polls matching Perot with Bush and Clinton in Illinois. But he doubts the results would be any different than national polls. "We do, we must first resolve the problem we have in some areas with streets that have similar names and numbers."

Your area, Missouri Street, is one of our problems. Missouri Street is close to familiar with Missouri Avenue, and has the same identifying numbers.

To make it easier for emergency vehicles to find your location, we have decided to change the name of Missouri Street. The decision to change the name of Missouri Street rather than Missouri Avenue was based on the simple fact that it is much easier to do so.

Our apologies for any inconvenience this may cause you. I am sure you will agree that the possible benefits will far outweigh any inconvenience.

We have not decided on a name yet. I signed a legal document giving up some of my rights. The Personnel Committee and I agreed not to disclose any agreement until the full board had the opportunity to discuss it.

Fortunately, I had to agree to very little. For example, I gave up my right to examine the resumes and files which I had requested. Since I had already advertised for the resumes and secured the evidence I needed to prove my charges that the hiring practices at BAC were discriminatory, it was not necessary to continue to request the files.

Exemptions cut property taxes

TO THE EDITOR: I would like to once again remind Venice Township taxpayers to make sure they are receiving all the deductions to which they are entitled.

would vote for a challenger," Edgar said. "If you have two challengers, they're going to split that vote."

That theory, of course, did not hold up as recently as Illinois' March 17 primary election, when incumbent Sen. Alan Dixon lost in a race with two challengers, Carol Moseley Braun and well-heeled attorney Al Hefield.

MOVING ON: Although Dixon does not leave office for eight months, some of his top staffers are already taking new jobs.

Bill Adams, a Georgian recruited from Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., in 1988, will become press secretary for Sen. Terry Stanford, D-N.C.

Eugene Callahan, a former newspaper reporter from Springfield who is Dixon's top aide, will do double duty as administrative assistant and press secretary.

Charles Pizer of Peoria, a legislative assistant, will become legislative director for Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Chicago, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Maura Reidy of Chicago, a legislative aide, will have similar responsibilities in Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley's office in Springfield.

Callahan said the ease with which Dixon aides have found jobs "is directly related to the quality" of his staff. Callahan has had some offers, including a top-ranking spot with another senator. But Callahan, who has been Dixon's aide for two decades, said he wants to stay with Dixon until he leaves office on Jan. 3.

CONSOLIDATION PRIZE: The same day that Republican Senate candidate Rich Williamson was making rounds at Springfield, the Washington Post ran a very positive profile on Braun, his Democratic rival.

But Williamson claims he does not begrudge Braun the national and statewide attention she has received from upsetting Dixon and making a historic Senate bid.

He said "she has earned the right for media coverage — and she's certainly getting it." But he expects both he and his rival will be well known to Illinois voters by Nov. 8.

Williamson did not leave town empty-handed. A $500-a-person reception gained his campaign $50,000. And he had a chance to mingle with other potential donors the following night at a dinner honoring President Bush that raised $9 million for Senate and House candidates nationwide.

The National Republican Senatorial Committee already has promised to spend the legal maximum of nearly $1 million on Williamson's campaign.

Board member gives up rights

TO THE EDITOR:

Whenever a public body or servant does something which appears to be improper and someone questions the activity, that organization or individual has an obligation to be open, candid, cooperative and willing to assume responsibility.

That is not the case at Bellevue Area College.

Whenever I raised the question of irregularities in the hiring practices at BAC, a wall of secrecy was immediately thrown up, my character was attacked, and inaccurate information was given out that made my credibility suspect. Those responsible refused to publicly correct the statements.

Tax dollars were used to attempt to cause me economic hardship by initiating a legal action and threatening to expand it. In fact, one board member stated it would personally cost me $5,000 to $10,000 to defend myself if I didn't conform to their wishes.

In order to prevent a financial drain to the taxpayers and myself, I signed a legal document giving up some of my rights. The Personnel Committee and I agreed not to disclose any agreement until the full board had the opportunity to discuss it.

Fortunately, I had to agree to very little. For example, I gave up my right to examine the resumes and files which I had requested. Since I had already advertised for the resumes and secured the evidence I needed to prove my charges that the hiring practices at BAC were discriminatory, it was not necessary to continue to request the files.

Name of street to be changed

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is addressed to the residents who live on Missouri Street in the northwest Granite City area.

Residents, as you know, Madison County will soon be bringing its 911 telephone system on line. Before we do, we must first resolve the problem we have in some areas with streets that have similar names and numbers.

Your area, Missouri Street, is one of our problems. Missouri Street is close to familiar with Missouri Avenue, and has the same identifying numbers.

Last summer, we helped a number of people reduce their taxes by filing for the Senate Bill 1790 and/or Homestead exemptions before they paid their real estate tax bills.

I urge everyone to look at the left column of the tax bill to see if a number greater than zero appears before the "Senate Bill 1790" or "Homestead" lines.

A zero in those spaces means you are not currently receiving a deduction.

If you are buying the property you actually live in, you are probably entitled to the Senate Bill 1790 deduction which can, in some cases, substantially reduce your tax liability.

The Homestead deduction is for homeowners over 65 years of age and these persons may also qualify for the Senate bill deduction.

Many times, persons buying homes have their taxes paid by a bank or mortgage company from an escrow account.

Often, they don't even see their tax bill and are just given an amount they need to pay the taxes, insurance, etc.

By law, your lender must present you with a copy of your tax bill, but, all too often, they fail to do so. Take it upon yourself to ask your lender for a copy of your tax bill. And if you have any doubts concerning your proper deductions, please call my office before they pay your bill.

Even though the lender may be paying your taxes for you, it is still your money.

Once the bill is paid, it is too late to seek deductions or to formally protest your taxes.

Finally, all Venice Township taxes must be paid to the Venice Township collector before Sept. 1. Do not send any payments to the county treasurer until Sept. 1 or later.

Labor Temple hall comes alive again

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

There was a time when the third-floor meeting room of the Granite City Labor Temple was the center of local society.

Designed to seat more than 1,000 people, it was filled with that many and more, not just for labor meetings, but for everyone from John Phillip Sousa to lecturers on the Chautauque circuit.

"When Eugene V. Debs came to town, more than 2,500 packed the place," said Ed "Dink" Denny, vice president of the Labor Temple Association.

"Apparently, the fire marshal had to break it up because the floor was really rolling and he thought there was a danger it would collapse."

On Saturday nights, couples interested in dancing lined up at the box office outside the hall to buy tickets and take advantage of the well-oiled hardwood floor.

For banquets, a dumbwaiter delivered food directly to the hall from a kitchen in the basement.

The building was built at the turn of the century by union members, who each agreed to donate either a day's labor or the equivalent in wages to its construction.

"Unions built it and had their meetings here, but it was much more than just a labor hall," Denny said. "It was really a part of the community as a whole. This was the place to be in Granite City."

Recently, however, the hall had gone unused and, Denny said, had more or less been turned into an attic storage area. This year, the Labor Temple Association started renovating the temple and the hall was included.

"You wouldn't believe the stuff up there," Denny said. "It was like digging through history."

The idea, Denny said, was to restore the room to a usable state while, at the same time, preserving its original appearance.

"Looking at it now, you can't help imagining all the things that took place here," he said. "I think it just gives you a feeling like you're closer to all those people who were here years ago."

On Saturday night, for the first time in more than a quarter of a century, the third-floor meeting room came alive again when the United Steelworkers of America celebrated its 50th anniversary.

"I think that's fitting, kind of like celebrating history in a historic place," Denny said.

The anniversary celebration included a lecture on labor history in Granite City by David DeChenne and music of the labor movement performed by Eddie Starr, Jill Ross and Carl Fichtenbaum.

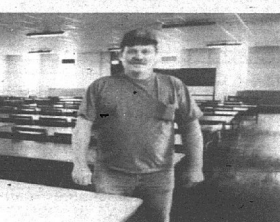

The celebration was sponsored by USWA Locals 16, 30, 67, 68, 4063 and 9325.

It's also a kind of sad time because you say goodbye to all of your friends and close ones, and you don't know if you will ever see them again."

CLASS OF '92

This 1922 American LaFrance fire engine was the first motorized fire engine in Granite City. It was restored in 1991 and will be on display Saturday.

Local antique fire truck on display

Antique fire engines are coming to the "Land-ing."

On Saturday, May 30, the public will join thousands of area firefighters at Laclede's Landing in St. Louis to celebrate the history of firefighting. The second annual Riverfront Fire Muster is an event for "anyone who looks out the window as fire engines go by."

During the muster, the cobblestone streets of Laclede's Landing and the Riverfront will be taken over by fully restored antique fire engines.

The 1922 Riverfront Fire Muster will feature Granite City's first motorized fire engine, a 1922 American LaFrance, and nearly 50 other antique rigs.

Children can take rides on one of the antique rigs by making a donation to the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Also at the event will be several modern engines from the St. Louis Fire Department, including 110-foot-ladder engines and the rescue squad.

St. Louis firefighters will display life-saving rescue techniques, including the "jaws of life," and will instruct children on fire safety in a "safe house."

The muster will last from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The event is free. Parking is available on Laclede's Landing and in the Gateway Arch garage.

Glen Carbon exhibit to open June 3

The Glen Carbon Centennial Exhibit is scheduled to open on Wednesday, June 3, 1992, at the Madison County Historical Museum in Edwardsville.

The exhibit, which was prepared by Joyce Williams and the Glen Carbon Historic Preservation Commission, will run through Aug. 30 and includes numerous photographs, artifacts, and costumes of early Glen Carbon.

Of special interest are items concerning the St. Louis Press Brick Company, the Madison Coal Corporation, the Sedacek and Stehman Soda Bottle Works, the Dom Pizzini Saloon, and the Schroeder Brothers Meat Market.

Several historic costumes worn by Mary Poubia Sucky, who came from Czechoslovakia to Glen Crossing in 1904, are featured.

The Madison County Historical Museum and Library are located at 715 N. Main St. in Edwardsville and are open to the public on Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., and on Sunday afternoons from 1-4 p.m.

The museum is closed holidays. Groups are welcome and are asked to call ahead for an appointment, at 656-7562.

The museum, housed in the federal-style mansion built by Dr. John H. Weir in 1836, also features an extensive history and genealogy reference library; period-furnished parlors and bedrooms and display rooms containing Indian artifacts from the John Sutter and Raymond P. Smith collections; birds mounted by Troy taxidermist Paul Jarvis; and toys and dolls from the Buzetta Meyer collection.

Area farmers facing notices on delinquent government loans

Some area farmers are among those who will soon get notices on delinquent government loans from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

More than 1,000 Illinois farmers will be receiving such notices, and at least six are in Madison County, according to a department official based in Edwardsville.

The Agriculture Department's Farmer's Home Administration will offer farmers a few ways to resolve their debt, with foreclosure as a last resort.

"I know of six farmers in Madison County on the list," said Gary Mersinger, a supervisor in the agency's Madison County office. "I think two of them will be paid current by the time they're sent so hopefully this will only affect four."

FmHA stopped restructuring bad loans in late 1990 when Congress passed a law changing the program. The government was criticized for being too tough on small farmers while large operators were allowed to write off millions of dollars.

Now that new rules have been written, officials will be contacting farmers and urging them to make an appointment. Letters will be mailed June 10 to 18.

"It's probably stressful receiving a packet of information from us," said Fred Koehler, an FmHA official in Champaign.

"If they choose to not take

"They are concerned that they're not on schedule, and many want to work with us to get their account up to date."

The president of the Illinois Farmers Union, John Little of Tolono, said the notices will be bad news for farmers trying to recover from 1991.

"There are certain areas in Illinois that were hard hit by drought," he said. "Farmers who are facing this were also facing poor crops last year. It will be quite a hardship."

FmHA has closed 14 Illinois offices, which could make it harder for farmers to make a convenient appointment, Little said.

Records show 1,054 borrowers, about 20 percent of active state borrowers, were delinquent on May 1. But Illinois FmHA chief Jack Young said that figure now probably stands between 900 and 1,000.

Koehler said the average debt is about $80,000 per farmer. The alternatives include lowering the interest rate or deferring payments for up to five years while a farmer attempts to get in better financial shape, he said.

Farmers also might settle the loan by paying the difference between the value of assets and the government's foreclosure expense, Koehler said.

"If they choose to not take advantage of any of these options, then foreclosure is a last resort," he added.

Gordon McElmending, a 57-year-old Roodhouse farmer who recently lost more than 1,400 acres of his land to Farm Credit Services of St. Louis, said the notices shouldn't come as a surprise to his colleagues.

"Most of the farmers I know have already been warned and are trying to work something out," McElmending said. "I think their odds are very good if they act fast. But in all honesty, this is a terrible situation. The days of family farming are running out fast."

Mersinger said farmers will be encouraged to sit down with officials to work out a payment plan.

"I don't think we'll have mass foreclosures," Mersinger said. "Most of these debts can be restructured. Some cases won't be saved, and there will be some sad farmers who might need to look for other jobs."

"There are a few who don't know what this is all about, and I'm sure they're scared," he said. "But, if they don't respond, we're going to get mean and nasty real quick. It's going to be tough on some, but we're trying to be realistic with them. We want to work things out in every one's best interests."

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED Attorney At Law

The purpose of a closing argument in a trial is to allow the attorney to summarize his case and attempt to convince the jury to decide the case in a particular way. Several Illinois cases stand for the proposition that closing arguments are not to make reference to a defendant's possible criminal conduct in the future. To suggest future criminal conduct could be regarded as reversible error on appeal and result in the jury's verdict being overturned.

In one recent case, a defendant was convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol after a jury trial. He was placed on probation for a period of one year. In his closing argument, the State's Attorney made this statement, "This case is important to the Defendant, and it's equally important to you and your families because it's you and I that drive the highways of Scott County day in and day out. You've got to ask yourself, do I want to meet (the Defendant) on the highway the way he was driving some evening? Do you want your son or daughter to meet him on the highway?" The defendant maintained the State committed reversible error by comments made in the closing argument.

The defendant's attorney objected to the comments made by the State's Attorney. He argued that the statement made reference to the defendant's possible criminal conduct in the future, namely that of driving while under the influence.

The Appellate Court noted that the State's Attorney evidently decided to "throw care to the wind" in his rebuttal argument. The Court stated that it was tempted to find reversible error in this closing argument. The Appellate Court felt that the trial evidence did not justify an inference that the defendant would engage in criminal conduct in the future and that such speculation was improper.

Should an Appellate Court reverse a jury's findings when such prejudicial remarks are made? These decisions must be made on a case by case basis. In this matter, the Appellate Court felt that considering the closing argument as a whole, the parts presented for review did not so substantially undermine the fairness of the trial as to warrant a reversal. Therefore, the Court affirmed the conviction of the defendant for driving under the influence of alcohol.

Sewers

Partney said that potential liability and lack of insurance coverage "scared me to death." He and several other aldermen said the city has paid claims to residents in the past for damage done to their property while performing the sewer cleaning.

"We're just lucky we haven't been sued," said Ward 6 Alderman Judy Whitaker, adding that she remembered several residents were paid for damages "of as much as $1,000 and $2,000" during her tenure as Street and Alley Committee chairman.

Ward 1 Alderman Casmer Skubish said the service is vital to the city's residents and that without it they would be open to fraud by unscrupulous plumbers.

Partney responded by saying plumbers are licensed by the city and that if a licensed plumber is used, any report of fraud could result in having the license revoked.

Skubish said the city keeps finding new ways to charge for its services and said he'd like to see residents "get more services for less money."

Balen

Also in Tuesday's meeting, the board accepted the retirement plans of two school staff members and resignations of two others.

Balen said those vacancies, along with seven current and future retirements approved at the May 12 meeting, illustrate the exodus of the Granite City school system's mature staff has been experiencing, an exodus that Balen will have to address in the coming years.

"Within the next four to five years, we will have almost 100 veteran teachers and administrators leaving. That will create a tremendous void within the system until they are replaced," Balen said.

"I think we seriously have to make a concerted effort to look for and develop people to fill those positions. We need to recruit and encourage them to

Bradd said the worries are unfounded. The "worst-case scenario" for an accident dismisses any possibility that Prather Elementary School would have to be evacuated, he said.

"We've spent millions of dollars to ensure that nothing will happen at our school. In the worst-case scenario, the highest possible concentration (of potentially toxic gas) would not reach the school."

"We have scrubbers which are automatically activated in an accident. We have electronic monitors which activate control devices. Our operators don't have to do a thing. We've tested it and it works."

Donnelly echoed those opinions and said there is no possible way the school could ever be in danger.

"It could not happen," said Donnelly. "It's a non-issue. We don't deal with a high concentration of cyanide. There's probably more pollutants in the air of this city right now than we could ever be a part of."

Seismic activity and its repercussions upon the plant were also mentioned. One scenario had an earthquake with a magnitude of 8.0 hitting the St. Louis area.

Aside from damage by the quake itself, people voiced concern about its effect on such a plant. Bradd said there is nothing to fear on that front.

"If there was an earthquake, our building would be the only one standing," Bradd said.

"People would come running to us for some place to live because the plant would feel no effects," he said.

Eticam must have $2 million liability insurance before it could begin operations. It was noted that questions were raised as to whether the city could be liable if damage exceeded $2 million.

"The company is held completely liable for all insurance expenditures," said Larry Eastep, IEPA manager for permit sections. "If it goes over the original liability, they have to come up with the money, not the city. If they were to go bankrupt, then the EPA would step in."

Money the city would be able to make off of the venture was the subject which brought Cruse into the discussion.

The premise of the meeting was to ask questions and make comments which would be considered by the IEPA in its official permit decision. But some people were angry and wanted to hold people accountable.

The mayor was asked how much the city would profit and where the money would go.

"I've heard that it's something like 1 cent for every gallon they bring in," said Cruse. "I don't know exactly how much money we're talking about."

rise to the administrative ranks. We have to start planning (immediately)." Walmesley said the district will lose 81 teachers and six administrators by 1994; 15 teachers will retire by the end of this year alone. Walmesley described the phenomenon as a "double-edged sword."

"We are obviously losing some experienced teachers. That's the 'down' side. You hate to lose teachers," Walmesley said.

"But the 'up' side is that it gives us the opportunity to hire young kids who just came out of college who have the knowledge of the newest technology. The other side of it is that the older teacher retires at a salary of $45,000 and we can hire a new teacher at $25,000."

"Financially speaking, it's good news. Experience wise, it's terrible news."

In would be appreciated and needed in our city. Whatever money comes from it would be put in our general fund.

"If it's safe and it means one job, I'm for it 1,000 percent. If it means 5,000 jobs and it's unsafe, I'd vote against it."

Regarding the 1989 Eticam public hearing, the sentiment voiced this week was that the public was not properly informed by the city that such a meeting was to take place.

"I have a meeting with jurisdiction, the hearing announcements must be published and must be signed, in this case by the city clerk," according to George Moran, retired appellate judge. Moran said the notice published was not signed and was placed by Eticam rather than by the city.

"No one got an invitation to come to the meeting," said Moran. "No such notice was given by the city. A notice is a jurisdictional requirement. If you don't have that, it's not a legitimate meeting."

The IEPA will accept written comments until the hearing period ends on June 28. The agency will then study the points made at the hearing and in the written comments and come to a decision.

Representatives said the process could take up to three months following the end of the hearing period — possibly late September.

July 11-18 camp for asthmatics

The American Lung Association of Illinois is seeking campers to attend Superkids, a residential camp on July 11-18 for children with asthma.

Superkids gives asthmatic children the opportunity to enjoy outdoor activities they may otherwise be denied, and provides medical support 24 hours a day.

Asthma can be a serious problem for children, a spokesman said. It is the number one reason why children are taken to hospital emergency rooms, and one of the primary reasons why children miss school in the United States.

Spaces are still available for campers from this area. For more information, families may call 692-0585.

Girls score 12 in sectional win

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

If recent history means anything, the Lady Warrior soccer team is headed back to state. In the first game of last year's sectional, Granite City scored its most lopsided win ever with a 12-0 win over Cahokia on the way to the state finals. The Lady Warriors matched that score in the first round of this year's tournament Tuesday night at Memorial Stadium. This time, Springfield Lanphier was the victim. Freshman Holly Farnsworth had three goals, while Beth Rapoff and Jill Haddix added two each in perhaps the most one-sided match most of the fans will ever witness. The shots on goal were 36-0, and the score easily could have been higher. Lions goalie Kimberly Fay had to scramble to smother several more chances right on the goal line. "We're finally getting our top players tuned up a little," said coach Gene Baker, who gave his frontline players lots of playing time considering the score. "This obviously wasn't a real competitive game, but you could see our passing was much sharper (see 12-0, Page 2B)

Deep Eagles flying with 5-1 start

By Dave Whaley

The Eagles were in a dancing mood Saturday night. Granite City improved to 5-1 in Mon-Clair League play Monday with a double-header sweep in East St. Louis. For the first time in four years, the Eagles and Colts played without incident, and Granite City will be riding high heading into Saturday's fund-raising dance at the Eagles Hall.

Granite City and East St. Louis had bench-clearing brawls in 1989 and 1990, then the Eagles forfeited last year when they didn't have enough players. But depth has been the key in this season's quick getaway.

"We had almost our whole roster there Sunday and about 15 guys Monday," said general manager Woody Moad. "We beat a good East St. Louis team without three of our starters (John Moad, and Tim and Jamie Hogan)." Mark Begando won the first game 4-1 on four-hitter. Darren DePew, off to a sensational Brian Harshany picked up the win in relief as Granite City won the nightcap 6-5 in nine innings. Harshany was also 4 for 5, and DePew had three hits for the third straight game. He also drove in two runs. Doug Duncan of Greenville, the only non-Granite City player on the roster, had two hits as the Eagles out-hit the Colts 14-7. Art May Jr. took the loss for East St. Louis (5-5) as the Eagles scored four in the top of the seventh to take a 5-3 lead before the Colts tied it with two in the bottom of the seventh.

On Sunday, the Eagles split a home double-header with Brighton, winning the opener 16-0 with a run in the bottom of the tenth. Each team had scored five runs in the eighth. Darin Hendrickson was 4 for 5 with a home run and four RBIs. Moad homered and Mike Nordstrom had

Curry looking for big finish

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Larry Curry wants to end his high school athletic career in a big way. The Granite City High School senior, a three-time state qualifier in the discus, hopes to bring home the gold this weekend at the Class AA state meet in Charleston. He finished ninth last season and just missed winning a medal. It won't get any easier.

"The field's a lot stronger," said Curry, who won the sectional championship at East St. Louis last Friday with a toss of 159-8. "I need a better throw than that to survive the preliminary round (tomorrow). It's going to take a throw of 160 or better to get me into the finals. I need a throw of at least 170 to place."

Curry, who will play football at Northwestern University next season, had his best toss of the season at the Tiger Relays on April 22 with a meet record of 166-5.

Getting the range I need to place is realistic," he said. "But I'm still fiddling around with my form. I'm not totally happy with my release. There are a lot of little things involved with throwing the discus properly. I don't believe there's a perfect throw. It's just a case of finding something that makes you comfortable during your approach."

Curry's biggest problem has been locating his steps. "I've been in a slump the last couple of weeks," he said. "Footing is so important on your release. I'm taking too big a stride on my first step. My dad (Larry Sr.) and I have worked on it all season, but it's tough getting your steps down in that small circle. I've scratched quite a few times this season."

Curry's father, an assistant coach on the track team, was a successful shot put and discus thrower himself.

"It's an advantage having my own personal coach," Curry said. "He always has me watching films on throwing the discus. I just try to copy the form used by the world-class throwers."

Curry is determined to bring home a medal.

"It would be disappointing not medaling, especially after getting up there three times," he said. "This is my last shot. I'm not going out for track in college. It's going to be strictly football."

Larry Curry is encouraged by his father while preparing to throw the discus.

Warrior arms committee blanks Panthers

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Pitching by committee was how the Warriors prepared for regional action Tuesday.

Five pitchers combined on a one-hitter as Granite City finished the regular season with a 21-8 record by shutting out Jerseyville 5-0 at Varsity Field. The single game was scheduled to partially make up for a rained out double-header April 18.

"We had a bunch of kids throw well," said coach Bob Stegelmeyer. "If we can get some early Thursday, we might do this again. Anyone who pitches just a little Thursday would be available to come back Monday."

Granite City, the No. 2 seed in the Belleville West Regional, hosts No. 7 seed East St. Louis at 1 p.m. today. The game is being played early because East Herman tripled to start a three-run fourth. Billy Van Buskirk had his first hit in quite a while, an RBI double. Bobby Wilson and Chris Hildreth added RBI hits, and Marshall had a sacrifice fly.

"Les is setting the table for us at the top of the order," said Stegelmeyer. "We need to get him and Jason Maxfield hitting at the same time. Maxie has hit the ball well all year, but he's had tough luck. Herman's triple looked like how he was hitting early in the year, and it was really good to see Van Buskirk (see BASEBALL, Page 2B)

Lady Warriors advance to regional quarterfinal

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

It was a long time coming, but the Lady Warriors finally won a regional game.

With a 5-4 win at Jerseyville on Tuesday, No. 4 seed Granite City advances to play No. 1 seed Civic Memorial today at 4 p.m. The last time the Lady Warriors survived the first round was in 1989.

"Things gelled for us," said Lady Warrior coach John Hutchings. "We made two costly errors that could have killed us. But we survived and came back to win."

The game between the two bottom seeds was a rematch of last year's first round. Jerseyville won the first error-free game 15-13. The errors weren't

Lueckert edges Frye in midget race at Tri-City

Greg Lueckert won a race-long duel with Danny Frye to earn a feature win in a special appearance by the MARA midgets Saturday at Tri-City Speedway.

Frye led the first half of the race, but might have been slowed by a smoking engine and barely held off Tim Siner and Scott Hutton, who took third and fourth, respectively. Frye and Hutton won the heats.

Tom Helfrich paid his first visit to Tri-City this year and took home the Clark Oil late model series feature trophy after a spirited battle with Jim Rarick.

Rarick took the lead on lap two and held it for 14 laps. When the two encountered a lapped car on the front straightaway, Rarick moved high - but so did the lapped car, giving Helfrich an opening around the lead. The two were followed across the finish line by Kevin Gundaker, Bobby Delitz and Kevin Claycomb. The prelims were won by Durbin and Gundaker. Rarick also won the trophy dash.

Charlie Smith moved past Alan Miles in the Skool Bandit IMCA modified points standings by winning his second feature of 1992. Smith easily beat: John Hobson, Jim Weber, Mike Mudd and Marvin Frey to the finish. Miles, who started at the back of the pack, could only move up to sixth. Donnie Heiligalt and Terry James were Reeves isn't his.

Jeff Parnell, a second-year racer from the area, won his first career feature trophy in the Mello Yello pro stock class. He topped points leader Dave Jones and Rick Rhoads, who finished second and third. The heat winners were the heat winners.

get a hit." The Warriors were rained out of a double-header in Carbondale on Saturday, but picked up an extra win over the weekend when Cahokia had to forfeit 12 games — including a 13-4 win over the Warriors on April 17 — because the Comanches had been using an ineligible player, catcher James Sellers.

Now it's time to put up or shut up. "I don't know why we got moved from Edwardsville to Belleville for the regional," said Stegemeier. "But you would have to beat one of those teams in the sectional anyway. The goal of any team should be to win the state championship. We've been competitive with the good teams. Any of the games with Belleville East and West could have gone either way."

"I just have to be happy with how we played today. I'm convinced we won't be a 'rah-rah' team in the dugout. We can't save anything now."

NOTES: Junior Ben Hicks (5-0) is expected to start on the mound today. Sophomores Shawn Shrum and Sean Lakatos have been called up to the varsity for post-season play.

seventh. The Lady Warriors loaded the bases and scored twice. Jerseyville plated one run and had runners at second and third before Puhse put them away.

In the seventh, Shelia Heil and Tiffany Winters singled. Terri Buster was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Puhse singled to right and the ball was misplayed. Heil and Winters scored, but Puhse was thrown out going to second. Buster was picked off third to end the inning.

"It got a little close there at the end, but I was pleased that we were able to hold on," said Hutchings.

Granite City scored twice in the top of the first with two outs. Puhse, Karen Sykes and Jessica Thomas singled to load the bases. Dawn Bazzell hit a grounder to short which was misfielded and thrown away for the unearned runs.

But Jerseyville scored an unearned run in the first and tied the game on three singles and an error in the sixth. They had another chance in the seventh, but left two stranded. Panther starter Amy Tuetken walked the bases loaded in the fifth, but the Lady Warriors could score only once. Winters walked, stole second and scored on a wild pitch to make it 3-1.

Hutchings said if his team can cut down on mistakes, they have a chance to beat CM.

Metro east all-star game in Edwardsville June 21 er than has been for a while." Things will get progressively more interesting each game — and three wins are still needed to return to the state tournament in Naperville on June 5-6. Next up is Wood River today at 4 p.m., and the game will be played at Wood River's Benbow Field since Memorial Stadium is preparing for high school graduation ceremonies Friday night.

The 10th-seeded Oilers have improved quite a bit since an early 6-0 loss in Granite City. In fact, they scored a mild upset Saturday in the first round by knocking off eighth-seeded O'Fallon 3-1.

"That's a smaller field up there," Baker said. "It's about 60 x 100, whereas our field is about 68 x 120. We'll have to watch for balls over the top, and if it's physical there will be more shooting."

The Lady Warriors can't do much more shooting than they did Tuesday, when their guns were still smoking for several hours after the final horn. On the other hand, the only time goalie Stephanie Kulk handled the ball was when her teammates sent it back to her. She got her ninth shutout.

Meanwhile, Granite City wasted little time in letting Lanphier know the long bus ride was in vain. Rapoff, Shawn Odom and Farnsworth all scored in the first 6:09. Julie Goclan and Staci Johnson added goals before the first quarter had ended. Haddix and Lynsey Evans scored in the second quarter. Rapoff, Farnsworth, Ginger Henson and Haddix made it 11-0 in the third quarter; and Farnsworth finished her hat trick in the final period. Assistants went to Farnsworth, Amanda Witter, Kara Gauen, Ann Logan, Odom, Michelle Knox and Christy Costello (two).

Weaver satisfied with last of 'Alien' movies

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

Sigourney Weaver says she is pleased with her new film, "Alien 3," for a couple of reasons.

First, Weaver says she was finally paid what she considers to be a respectable amount. Although she won't confirm the exact figure, industry sources say Weaver earned $4 million for "Alien 3," plus a percentage of the film's receipts.

Second, Weaver says she likes the way the Ripley character evolved through the trio of "Alien" movies. She says a common movie dictates that Ripley either emerges as a winner or loser in this third bout with the slimy metal-eating machine from outer space.

"Ripley has survived about all the bad luck one person can reasonably expect to have," Weaver said. "To prolong the story line past a third film would be stretching credibility, even in the realm of science fiction."

For this third installment, Weaver had to shave her head. She learned about it the first time she met the film's director, David Fincher.

"David had just learned he got the job, and there were a lot of movie production executives sitting around," Weaver said. "He looked at me and said, 'How do you feel about being bald?'"

"I told him it would be OK, but that I would want more money. The room got a little tense for a moment or two before they all figured out I was kidding."

Born Susan Weaver in New York City on Oct. 8, 1949, Weaver was educated at both the Stanford and Yale schools of drama. She began using the name Sigourney in the early 1980s, after a character in "The Great Gatsby."

The daughter of former NBC President Sylvester "Pat" Weaver and actress Elizabeth Inglis, Weaver graduated from Yale only one year before her friend Meryl Streep.

Weaver gained almost overnight stardom in 1979 as the heroine in Ridley Scott's "Alien" and proved her serious dramatic credentials opposite Mel Gibson in "The Year of Living Dangerously" in 1982. She became best known to general movie audiences for her work in "Ghostbusters" in 1984.

Sigourney Weaver is Warrant Officer Ripley in "Alien 3."

Weaver was nominated for two Oscars in the same year. In 1985, her appearance in "Working Girl" earned her a Best Supporting Actress nomination, and her portrayal of naturalist Dian Fossey in "Gorillas in the Mist" brought her a Best Actress nomination.

Also, in 1986, she was nominated for a Best Actress Oscar for "Aliens." Weaver has been married to stage director Jim Simpson since 1984.

"I have a very heroic view of women," Weaver said, "and I think that perspective on women in general is just starting to come out in the movies."

"Women are competing with men now on an equal footing and doing every job imaginable. I'm proud because I feel we've been able to convey that truth through the character of Ripley, especially in the last two pictures."

In "Alien 3," Warrant Officer Ripley (Sigourney Weaver) is stranded on a remote prison planet inhabited by convicts, led by Dillon (Charles S. Dutton) who have no modern weapons to fight back with when the alien goes on the attack.

Toad The Wet Sprocket's third album, 'Fear,' gets renewed push

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

Though Toad The Wet Sprocket's third album, "Fear," has been out for several months, the record recently got a renewed push when the song "Hold Her Down" emerged as a college radio hit.

It was a situation that left Glen Phillips, the group's singer/lyricist/guitarist, with some mixed feelings.

"It's a weird song, because now that it's a single and now that it's on an album, it becomes a message," Phillips said. "And I hate the idea of writing a message. I write because it makes me feel."

"Hold Her Down," is a good example of the importance of emotion in Phillips' lyrics—even with a song that could be considered topical.

"There's been a tendency in recent years the idea that if you talk about an important subject, that you don't have to speak about it in a way that brings out any emotion," Phillips said. "Simply writing a politically correct lyric is enough in itself."

"One example to me is some of the songs on the new Fishbone album ('The Reality Of My Surroundings')," Phillips said. "It's like, OK, I know there's poverty. I know there's war. I know there's pain. I know there's drug addiction. I know all this, and you're saying it exists, and that does not make a good lyric. What makes a good lyric is dealing with it, wrestling with it and trying to get somewhere with it, and not just stating it."

Phillips explained the origins of "Hold Her Down," a song that was written three years ago. "It started out originally, my girlfriend at the time was jumped by a bunch of skinhead chicks," he said. They beat her up. The original lyric was first-person and very cynical from the point of view of the attacker.

"And time moved on and we broke up," he said. "And I met a new group of friends and realized that almost all of the women had been sexually assaulted and I... (became) enraged. I couldn't sing the song satirically anymore. It didn't work. It had to be angry. So we rewrote it and added a part and made it just angry."

"And... it's a really unpleasant song, not very fun to sing, and it's not very fun to listen to," he said. "But I also don't think it should be fun to listen to. What I was dealing with was not saying this is wrong, something should be done. I was saying it (makes me angry). It makes me feel embarrassed to be a man."

The passion for lyrics Phillips shows when discussing "Hold Her Down" was something that mainly developed only after he and his band mates — bassist Dean Dinning, drummer Randy Guss and guitarist Todd Nichols — had recorded their 1989 debut album, "Bread And Circus."

"We'd done some love songs, some just kind of happy-go-lucky things, and it suddenly became important to me that I write," Phillips said. "I like to write about emotions rather than events, because the emotions stay with me from year to year. Events will change."

"It's kind of like in lieu of therapy," he said, laughing at his comparison. The members of Toad The Wet Sprocket have developed as musicians over the three years since the release of "Bread and Circus," Phillips said.

"When 'Bread And Circus' came out, we'd been together I guess three years and had just started learning how to play," he said. "I mean, when we met in high school (in Santa Barbara, Calif.) none of us had been in a band before."
